V. New Business
   a. Executive Board Approval
      i. Stephon Bradberry, Chief of Staff
         1. My name is Stephon Bradberry and I was chosen to be the Chief of Staff. I am really passionate about serving our students and hearing their concerns. I really believe that it is important for us as a campus community to have those tough conversations so that we will be able to learn and grow from them. As the Chief of Staff I have been working on solidifying the exec summer schedule, solidifying FY18, creating the Executive manual, planning phases for the SGA retreat, and I am asking you all if you have any suggestions on what we can do to make campus effective as possible. Most importantly, I oversee the organizations budget and making sure the executive branch is inclusive, equitable, engaging and equipped to handle student concerns in a timely manner.
      ii. Ideisha Shanklin, Intern Program Director
         1. Particularly, as an undergraduate student for the first few years I was quite timid, I would mostly shy away from leadership opportunities. However, my sophomore year I realized my strengths in leadership. I realized that I am capable of leading others. I have the ability to not only relate to others but I have the ability to motivate others to continue succeeding. My freshman year was the absolute toughest year in my college career, my dad became really ill but because of leadership and those whom supported me I continued to push through my adversity. This position will allow me to give and provide resources for students to help them become successful in leadership as well. When I read about this position I knew that I had a deep underlying passion for it. Another component that this program provides is mentorship which is IMPORTANT for all college students to obtain. Although obtaining an education is key, it is important to remember that an abundance of opportunities are based upon the genuine relationships that you sustain over time. Mentorship is a component that I worked really close with in PWC, and looking back there were a lot of things I wish I could’ve done differently and this program will allow me the opportunity to do so. I want to give these freshman the opportunity to sustain lifelong relationships with both professionals and peer mentors. If I can teach them the importance of developing relationships regardless of their personality traits each of them will be successful in leadership. I’m passionate about all that I do and this program will SUCCEED because I will make sure of it!

iii. John Carr, Student Allocations Director (Eagle’s Nest)

1. My name is John Carr and I’m a current senior here at UNT. My specific major is kind of long, but it’s Business Integrated Studies using the international track with a focus in Organizational Behavior and Human Resources Management and I’m minoring in French. For the past three years, I’ve served on a few executive boards, various university committees, and I’m also the UNT Honors College Student Ambassador. I’m here as the Student Allocations Director for Eagle’s Nest. If you don’t know, Eagle’s Nest is a committee of students in charge of allocating a yearly budget of $60,000 to registered organizations on campus who may not have the monetary funds to program campus-wide or showcase events or projects that directly benefit our student body; I have the pleasure of serving as the liaison to this committee. This year with Eagle’s Nest, we are working to make our programming efforts more inclusive, accessible, and equitable for our students. In the past, I don’t think our funding has been used to its greatest potential nor among a quite varied number of student orgs. Not only do we want to help with allocation of funds, but also assist in campus programming, making sure our organizations are equipped, knowledgeable, and know their resources!

iv. Chance Farmer, Student Allocations Director (Raupe Travel Grant)
   1. ABSENT FOR INTERNSHIP

v. Gabrielle Tilley, Governmental Affairs Director
   1. The Governmental Affairs Director for SGA is responsible for creating and maintaining relationships between SGA and other groups including GSC, Faculty Senate, Staff Senate, and the City of Denton. The Director will help students register to vote and must also assist the University in keeping students updated on policy changes; university, state and local alike. I wanted this position so I could continue to serve students on our campus by providing them with information about the resources that are available to them, and by ensuring that their voices, as UNT students and citizens of the Denton community, are heard and considered as both the University and the City expand.
