Dear Parents and Family Members,

While nothing about this year looks the way we all thought it would due to COVID-19, I want you to know how glad I am to welcome you to the University of North Texas. Whether this is your first child to attend college or your last, congratulations on reaching this milestone. I hope you will find UNT and the Denton community to be a wonderful place for your student to grow personally and learn valuable skills to prepare them for their career aspirations.

AT UNT, we value our partnership with parents. The years your child are in college are as much a growing experience for you as it is for them. We recognize that each student’s success depends, in part, on our ability to form strong relationships between the university, the family, and the student. You will find that your child needs your support and guidance in new ways as they become more independent. We understand that you may also need support as you navigate your child gaining independence and your transitioning role in your child’s life.

Parent Orientation is an excellent first step in your family’s college journey. Research has shown us that Parent Orientation plays a critical role in helping you start to establish relationships with UNT. The program is designed to provide you with the resources and tools you will need to help guide your student appropriately through their first year at UNT. We hope you will leave orientation confident that our campus community is committed to helping your family, not just your student, transition to our campus.

Our shared goal is your student’s success at UNT. We know that students’ success depends on how prepared they are for the academic rigor of college. I hope you will help us reinforce the following tips students, faculty, and staff has said are critical to a student’s success at UNT:

» Show up. You can’t learn if you don’t show up to class.

» Find support. Everyone needs help sometimes and there is plenty of support (many outlined in this handbook) to go around.

» Get advised. Meeting with an academic advisor each semester will help you stay on track.

» Be prepared. Complete homework (mandatory and optional), read ahead, and study.

» Get involved. Step outside your comfort zone and get involved. This will allow you to experience all that this great university has to offer.

» Stay focused. College is hard, but you’re not alone; meet challenges head-on.

Thank you for entrusting UNT with your student’s college experience. You can be assured that you are sending your child to a campus that takes seriously our commitment to each of our students. Welcome to the Mean Green Family!

Elizabeth With, Ed.D.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SUCCESSFUL STUDENT & FAMILY TRANSITIONS TO UNT
Orientation & Transition Programs
Location: University Union, Suite 377
Phone: 940.565.4198
Website: transition.unt.edu

The Office of Orientation & Transition Programs coordinates programs and activities intended to provide new students with a successful academic and developmental transition to the University of North Texas. Beginning with first year students, the office serves as a central location for students to make connections across campus. These connections help guide and direct students and their families throughout their experience at UNT. Programs are designed with consideration to the particular needs and interests of each class of students and promote four-year graduation.

The mission of the Office of Orientation and Transition Programs is: “To be an evolving office for students and their families that facilitates successful transition into the UNT community by: helping them connect to the university; creating opportunities; and building relationships.” The programs and services offered through our office include:

TRANSITION PROGRAMS are programs that help students connect to fellow classmates. From service projects focused on a cause to various spirit activities, we want to make sure the first year at UNT is full of opportunities for students to get to know their peers.

EAGLE CAMP is a retreat for new students designed to ease the transition to UNT. Eagle Camp takes place before school starts. At Eagle Camp, students will participate in small-group activities and have time to make friends and enjoy activities like: volleyball, swimming, a ropes course, frisbee golf and more. After Eagle Camp, students have more friends and feel more comfortable starting the school year.

MENTORING PROGRAMS connect faculty, staff, and “seasoned” UNT students with first and second year students to help ease the transition into college life. All of us have experienced a time in our life where we thought, “I wish I would have known that.” By being a part of UNT’s mentoring program, mentees have the opportunity to hear this advice and mentors are able to give back to the university and teach new students some of those lessons they “wish they knew.”

THE TRANSFER CENTER is located in the University Union, Suite 377. Created in the spring of 2008, the Transfer Center is organized to help transfer students transition to life at the University of North Texas. We provide students with assistance and connections to campus resources to better ensure a successful transition to campus through programming and by providing a space for transfer students to lounge between classes and network with other students.

PARENT PROGRAMS is also part of the Office of Orientation and Transition Programs. All parent programs activities including the coordination of Family Weekend are handled through this office. More information about Parent Programs is included in the Just for Parents section of this handbook.
JUST FOR PARENTS
At the University of North Texas, we understand that no student reaches the milestone of attending college without the caring assistance and guidance of important role models. The transition to college is also not a process students make alone. Family members are also affected. Parent Programs, part of the Office of Orientation and Transition Programs, is specifically dedicated to meeting the needs of the parents and families of our students. Through its various programs and services, Parent Programs hopes you will learn to love the Mean Green as much as your students will. We also want to serve as a resource just for you. Our institutional research, and common sense tell us that when students have challenges or successes during their time at UNT, they are likely to contact you, first. We want you have the tools you need (including this handbook) to direct your student toward all the resources and opportunities UNT has to offer.

We also have programs just for you. They include:

- The Parent Association
- Summer Send Off Parties
- Family Weekend
- More information on Family Weekend can be found under UNT Special Events
- Parent CHAT Email account where parents can email parents@unt.edu

Parent Association

Established and run by parent volunteers, the Parent Association is designed to support positive relationships between students, parents and the university. Established in 2003, the organization currently includes more than 1,200 families. The Parent Association is very proud of its commitment to student scholarships. Annual memberships are available for $70, two-year memberships are available for $125, and lifetime memberships are available for $300. For more information about the Parent Association visit transition.unt.edu/parents or speak with one of the Parent Association volunteers at Parent Orientation. A membership form for the Parent Association is also included in this section.

Summer Send-off Parties

Each summer, the UNT Parent Association and the Office of Orientation and Transition Programs co-sponsor “send-off parties” in key cities across Texas. The parties offer incoming students and their parents an opportunity to ask last minute questions and meet other new Eagles from their hometown area. Parties are typically scheduled for late summer. For more information, visit our website.
UNT SPECIAL EVENTS

Homecoming
Coordinated By: Student Activities

Homecoming week, held each fall, offers activities that emphasize the tradition, spirit, and pride of UNT. It is an exciting time for students, employees, alumni, parents, and the entire Denton community. Student events and competitions run throughout the week. Friday night is Bonfire, built by Talons (UNT’s spirit organization), followed by the football game on Saturday. Homecoming Royalty, a student chosen to represent UNT, is crowned during the football game. Alumni events include the Golden Eagle 50-year reunion, Distinguished Alumni Achievement Awards banquet, reunions for colleges, student organizations, and affinity groups, and tailgating before the game.

Family Weekend
Coordinated By: The Office of Orientation and Transition Programs
Website: www.unt.edu/familyweekend

Family Weekend is the first big event for students and their families. Statistical evidence indicates that new freshmen that stay enrolled for the first six weeks of their fall semester dramatically increase their potential for success. Family Weekend comes just at the right time for students to be able to share their new environment with friends, parents, and family. But events aren’t just for freshmen families. There’s something for everyone. We hope you'll make a special effort to come back to campus, spend time with your student, visit departments and instructors and meet your student’s new friends and their families. A variety of activities make this a special time for both parents and students. Please check our website for details.

Flight Memorial
Coordinated By: The Dean of Students

The Flight Memorial is the annual memorial service where the university community honors all faculty, staff, students and alumni who have passed on during the last year. This event is typically held in April.

Honors Day
Coordinated By: The Vice President for Student Affairs & The Honors College

UNT recognizes current students for outstanding academic and extracurricular accomplishments, including those selected for the Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges award. Students are chosen by academic departments and university-wide committees. Student-selected awards for outstanding faculty are also announced at this ceremony. A reception follows the convocation for honorees and guests.

University Day
Coordinated By: Student Activities

First held May 10, 1961, when North Texas State College became North Texas State University, this spring event includes free food, music, activities, and a celebration of the day UNT became a university. The ceremony traditionally includes a welcome by the UNT President; a proclamation by the Mayor of Denton, pronouncing the college a university; and music by the pep band. The ceremony culminates in a picnic lunch open to the UNT community.
DO’S AND DON’TS FOR PARENTING A COLLEGE STUDENT

Rule #1: Write (even if they don’t write back).

Although freshmen are eager to experience independence, most will admit that they’d love some news from home, however simple it may be. Students also enjoy care packages filled with pictures, homemade cookies, laundry money or necessities like shampoo. There’s nothing more depressing than a week of empty mailboxes. Warning: Don’t expect a reply to every letter you write.

Rule #2: Visit (but not too much).

Visits by parents (especially when accompanied by shopping sprees and/or dinners out) are also important. This gives the student a chance to show off their new home and introduce parents to their friends. Surprise visits are not recommended, as students may need to adjust their studying schedule or other activities. It’s always nice to have a cheering section so continue to come to your student’s athletic, theatrical or academic performances.

Rule #3: Listen (and don’t worry too much about manic-depressive phone calls or letters).

Often when troubles become too much to handle (a bad test grade, a roommate disagreement, and mashed potatoes for dinner...again), students will call home looking for a sounding board. Don’t worry too much if you never hear of the A on last week’s paper, the fun date planned for the weekend, or the club meeting they attended for the first time. Unfortunately the urge to communicate is sometimes felt only during a ‘crisis’. Be patient with those ‘nothing-is-going-right-I-hate-this-place’ calls or letters. Just listen and, if asked, offer advice. While it may make you feel lousy, it works wonders for the student.

Rule #4: Expect Change.

Your student will change (either drastically within the first months, slowly over four years, or somewhere in between that pace). College and experiences associated with it can effect changes in social, vocational, and personal behavior and choices. A soft-spoken wallflower may become the next Homecoming Queen, a pre-med student may discover that biology isn’t for them, or a high school clown may become a devoted honors student. It’s to your advantage (and the student’s) to accept these changes. Try to support those studies or activities that seem to interest your student the most.

Rule #5: Ask Questions (but not too many).

College students are ‘cool’ and have a tendency to resent interference with their newfound lifestyle. Even so, it is still comforting to know that someone is interested in you. While parental curiosity can be obnoxious and alienating, it can also be relief giving and supportive depending on the attitudes of the persons involved. ‘I-have-a-right-to-know’ questions, ulterior motives or nagging should be avoided. Honest inquiries and ‘between friends’ discussion definitely further the parent-student relationship.

Rule #6: Begin to treat them as adults (especially when they return home for the summer or holidays).

When living away from home students become accustomed to coming and going whenever and wherever they please. While the rules of your house and the respect of the family remain, perhaps such things as curfew or ‘calling when you get there’ can be better adapted to the life of an adult. Expect different social hours and activities.
As a student, you've got a lot on your plate. But you've also got lots of resources and plenty of people at UNT who want you to succeed. Start strong. Define your future. Take control.

Follow these tips for success:

Show up.
Go to class every day, take notes and participate in discussions. It’s a pretty big campus, but we’ll help you find your way.

Find support.
Ask for help when you need it. Whether it’s tutoring for a tough class or finding someone to talk to, we’ve got you covered.

Get advised.
Explore and achieve your academic goals. Meet with your advisor for help navigating and choosing the right courses to stay on track for graduation.

Be prepared.
Do your homework and study. Take advantage of resources to conquer a college-size workload.

Get involved.
Meet new people and gain new perspectives by getting involved on campus and in the community. Find your place in student organizations and campus activities.

Stay focused.
College is hard, but you’re not alone. Meet your challenges head-on and ask for help to reach your goals.

Confidentiality of Educational Records

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) governs access to the educational records of students. Except for university personnel with a legitimate need to view the documents, only students may access their individual academic records. Students can provide access of their record to others by signing a written release specifying the release to the individual. Parents of dependent children can view their child’s record either by providing a release from the student or providing proof the child was claimed on the most recent federal tax return. Either a Parental Affidavit or a copy of the tax return is acceptable proof.

Proof of Enrollment

Enrollment verifications are completed in the Registrar’s Office and are based on a student’s registration. Undergraduate students are classified in the following way for enrollment purposes:

» Full Time: 12 or more hours per semester
» Three-quarter Time: 9-11 hours per semester
» Half-Time: 6-8 hours per semester

Establishing Residency

Legal state of residence determines the tuition fee per hour for enrollment at UNT. Rules and regulations for determining residence status are specified under Title 3 of the Texas Education Code and are available in the Office of Admissions and the Registrar’s Office. In-state tuition status requires physical residence in Texas for the 12-month period immediately preceding initial registration at UNT (or for the semester during which the change in residency is requested). In addition to the 12-month period, there are other requirements that are necessary for residency determination. Please contact the Office of Admissions or the Registrar’s Office for further information.

Bachelor’s Degree Basics

UNT offers 100 bachelor’s, 83 master’s and 37 doctoral degree programs — many nationally and internationally recognized.

Every class taken at UNT is measured by units called credit hours. In most cases, a credit hour represents the number of hours a student is expected to be in class every week to fulfill the requirements of that class. Most undergraduate classes are three-credit-hour courses, so taking a 15-hour course load means that a student can expect to be in class approximately 15 hours per week.

A bachelor’s degree shows that a student has completed coursework and met the requirements of a specialized curriculum. Below are some details about bachelor’s degrees at UNT:

- Minimum 120 credit hours*, depending on major
- 42 credit hours* of university core requirements
- College/School requirements
- Advanced hours, 3000-4000 level (varies by major)
- Major requirements
- Minor requirements (varies by major)
- Electives (varies by major)
Academic Classification is based on the number of hours you have earned.

Classifications for an Undergraduate Degree are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Classifications</th>
<th>Credit Hours Earned</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Freshman</td>
<td>0-29 hours</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sophomore</td>
<td>30-59 hours</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Junior</td>
<td>60-89 hours</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Senior</td>
<td>90+ hours</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* Graduate students are defined as students who have earned an undergraduate degree from an accredited college or university.

During early registration students register based on their current classification, not what it will be once a semester is completed.

Understanding Grade Point Average

Grade Point Average (GPA) plays an important role determining a student's eligibility for admission to the university, financial aid, academic standing and eligibility for certain programs and majors. The GPA is a critical component of determining whether or not a student is eligible for graduation, after a student has completed all required coursework and semester credit hours.

Each letter grade is assigned a different grade point value. Course grades recorded as I, NP, P, PR, CR, W or Z are not counted in GPA calculations. The grade point values for other grades are:

- A= 4 points per credit hour
- B= 3 points per credit hour
- C= 2 points per credit hour
- D= 1 point per credit hour
- F= 0 points per credit hour

Use the following steps to calculate either a student's semester GPA or an overall GPA:

1. Total the number of grade points earned.
2. Divide the total grade points by the total number of attempted credit hours.

Note: Credit hours earned through AP, CLEP, IB or other placement exams are not included in the GPA.

Types of GPA

There are several different types of GPA students encounter during their college career:

- Semester GPA - The GPA earned only for the courses taken at UNT for the specific semester.
- UNT Cumulative GPA (CGPA) – A student’s cumulative GPA for all of the hours attempted at UNT (determines academic status). Does NOT include transfer work.
- Overall GPA - A combination of the UNT and transfer GPA (graduation GPA).
- Major GPA – GPA required in the major. Can either be a pre-major GPA requirement to enter the program and/or to graduate from the program.

Beware of F’s. A grade of F is still considered an attempted course, and they count heavily against the student.
Academic Recognition

Students are eligible for certain academic honors based on grade point average. The UNT Semester GPA is used to calculate semester honors. Students must complete at least 12 hours of regularly graded coursework to earn semester honors. Semester honors are only awarded in the fall and spring semester.

» President’s List: Students must earn a 4.0 semester GPA in graded coursework taken at UNT.
» Dean’s List: Students must earn at least a 3.5 semester GPA in graded coursework taken at UNT.

The Overall GPA (UNT and transfer hours combined) is used to determine whether a student is eligible to graduate with honors. The requirements to graduate with honors are:

» 3.500 – 3.699 GPA – cum laude
» 3.700 – 3.899 GPA – magna cum laude
» 3.900 – 4.000 GPA – summa cum laude

Academic Standing/Academic Status

The university will track the UNT Cumulative GPA and the Semester GPA to determine a student’s academic standing or academic status. Students must maintain certain academic standards to remain at the university. Certain programs also require students to meet a minimum GPA. The chart below details the steps taken based on academic status:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STATUS</th>
<th>DEFINE</th>
<th>WHAT TO DO</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

Academic Advising at UNT

Academic advising is a student’s guide to success and timely graduation. Advisors work with the students to make progress toward completing the degree plan requirements and take courses suited to their educational and career goals. Academic advising involves helping the student select the courses in the proper sequence.

Understanding the Advising Responsibility

Academic advising is a student’s guide to success and timely graduation. An academic advising office is the place to go for assistance in understanding and planning how to make decisions about the connections between personal goals and a student’s educational career.

Academic advising is a collaborative educational process in which the student is an active participant; students and their advisor are partners in ensuring their academic success.

Advisors will partner and collaborate with your student to guide he/she in:

Advising Clearances

New freshman students for fall and spring, students on academic alert, probation, and students returning from suspension are required to have an advising clearance code to register for their classes. These codes are available from the academic advisor of the student’s major. Students with an advising hold on their account will not be able to register without seeing an advisor. Specific departments may also have additional advising requirements for students as they reach various levels.

Tip: Advising is not the only reason a student might have a registration hold on their account. More information on financial holds will be addressed in the Financial Essentials section of the Parent Handbook.
Advising Offices

Students are responsible for scheduling meetings with their academic advisors as necessary for future enrollment periods. If a student is unsure who that advisor is, it is appropriate to call the advising office of the academic college or school in which he/she has a major, as indicated below:

coe.unt.edu/sao
Location: Matthews Hall #105

To become a certified teacher in Texas, students must meet state requirements, which include completion of an Educator Preparation Program, obtaining a bachelor’s degree, and passing the state certification examinations. Students must be admitted to UNT’s Teacher Education Program before enrolling in most education courses.

Registering for Classes
The my.unt.edu Portal

Students will register for classes, accept financial aid awards, review grade reports and conduct much of their official university business through this online portal. Students will need their EUID and password to access the portal.

Online Degree Audit

An online degree audit lists all degree requirements in a user friendly format referred to as the “interactive audit”. It is a great tool for staying on track for graduation and to prepare for advising appointments. To access the audit visit mydegreeaudit.unt.edu. The audit will show:

» Credit hours earned and credit hours in-progress
» How courses you take will apply to your degree requirements
» University, overall, and major GPAs
» "What if" degree audits, if you are considering a change of major

As grades post and requirements are completed at the close of each semester, audits will update automatically. The online degree audit is not an “official” document. An official degree audit is a document which can be requested in your academic advising office.

Using this tool in collaboration with an academic advisor will help you make the most of the time, money and course selection while attending UNT. For more information about the audit, please contact an academic advising office to schedule an appointment.

Schedule Changes/Dropping Courses

Students are permitted to revise their schedules during a specific period of time at the beginning of each semester. It is important that students understand the registration dates for each semester in order to avoid various academic and financial consequences of dropping courses or withdrawing from the university after a certain time period.

Understanding the Difference Between Dropping a Class and Withdrawing

A drop refers to a student dropping an individual course from their schedule. A drop can occur either before or after the 12th class day of each semester, generally referred to as the census date. If the drop occurs before the census date, the enrollment is never considered to have been official and it will not be reflected on the student’s transcript. If the drop occurs after the census date, the enrollment is considered to have been official and a grade of W will be assigned to the course.

Withdraw refers to when a student drops all of their courses for a term, resulting in a complete withdrawal from the university. If the withdraw occurs prior to the census date, the courses will not be reflected on the transcript. If the withdraw occurs after the census date, the courses will be reflected on the transcript with a grade of W. Courses dropped as a result of withdrawing from the university are not subject to the Six Drop Rule. For more information regarding withdrawing from UNT for medical reasons, please review the Dean of Students pages in this publication.
Important Policies that Impact Dropping Courses

SIX-DROP RULE
Students enrolling in higher education for the first time during the Fall 2007 academic term or any subsequent terms may drop a total of six courses in their academic career. This includes any course(s) a transfer student has dropped at another Texas public institution of higher education. This does not apply to courses dropped prior to the census date and does not apply if the student withdraws for the term or session. Information on exceptions can be found at essc.unt.edu/registrar/schedule/droplimit.html.

http://registrar.unt.edu/registration/dropping-class

Determining Whether or Not to Drop A Course
Students should be encouraged to exhaust all possibilities, and seek out academic success resources when considering whether to drop a class or complete a course. Dropping classes could delay graduation and potentially wastes a student’s time and money. Students should also speak with their instructor, Financial Aid Office and academic advisor before making this decision.

Questions for a student to consider when dropping a class:
1. Have I met with my advisor or instructor?
2. Have I utilized any of the Academic Resources?
3. How far behind am I on my assignments? How far behind am I on my assigned reading?
4. What kind of grades have I earned so far on assignments? On quizzes? On exams?
5. How many more chances do I have to earn a grade in this particular class?
6. How has my attendance been in this particular class?
7. When are the drop deadlines? What are the procedures?
8. What is my status with Student Financial Aid and Scholarships and/or International Admissions?
9. Is this a pre-requisite or a co-requisite?
10. How many times have I taken this course at UNT?
11. How many courses have I dropped?

Once a student decides to drop a course attention must be paid to Academic/Registration deadlines, as posted on the Academic Calendar on the Registrar’s Office website. The date a student drops or withdraws may determine how much, if any, financial aid will need to be repaid.
Understanding these three key registration periods can be helpful.

Course Duplication

A student may take a course a second or subsequent time. The Registrar’s Office will post duplications at the request of the student, at the request of an academic advisor or upon review of the student’s record. Until a duplication is posted, the Registrar’s Office includes a repeated course in the student’s cumulative record of hours attempted and grade points earned. The Registrar includes without exception any course repeated more than once in the student’s cumulative record of hours attempted and grade points earned. Departments may count the highest grade for departmental GPA requirements; however, the academic dean uses only the last grade recorded in certifying the student’s eligibility for graduation. Undergraduate students who enroll in the same course more than twice may be charged additional tuition amounts.

Grade Reports

Grade reports, generated at the end of each semester, are available through the my.unt.edu portal. If the grade report or the academic standing is believed to be in error, the student should contact the Registrar’s Office within 30 days following the first class day of the succeeding term/semester. At mid-term/semester in the long session, instructors may provide individual written warnings to students who are doing unsatisfactory class work. These warnings are mailed from the Registrar’s Office upon request by the instructor.

Tip: Course duplications can help students boost their GPA, but all attempted courses stay on a student’s transcript.

Reminder: FERPA regulations prevent parents from automatically accessing student grade information. Make sure you read about FERPA in the Just for Parents Section.
Class Attendance

Regular and punctual class attendance is expected. Although in general, students are graded on intellectual effort and performance rather than attendance, absences may lower the student's grade where class attendance and class participation are deemed essential by the faculty member. In those classes where attendance is considered part of the grade, the instructor should so inform students at the semester's beginning by a written notice. Departments and similar academic units have authority to establish a department or course attendance policy, so long as the policy is in accord with the above stipulations.

Authorized Absences

Absences due to participation in sponsored activities must be approved in advance by the department chair and academic dean. Within three days after the absence, students must obtain authorized absence cards from the Dean of Students, located in the University Union, Suite 319, for presentation to their instructors. Students with authorized absence cards may make up the work missed when practicable or be given special allowance so that they are not penalized for the absence. See the Dean of Students information in this publication for more details regarding absence verification.

Absence for Religious Holidays

In accordance with state law, a student absent due to the observance of a religious holiday may take examinations or complete assignments scheduled for the day(s) missed, including those missed for travel, within a reasonable time after the absence. The student should notify the instructor of each class of the date of the anticipated absence as early in the semester as possible.

Only holidays or holy days observed by a religion whose place of worship is exempt from property taxation under Section 11.20 of the Tax Code may be included. A student who is excused under this provision may not be penalized for the absence, but the instructor may respond appropriately if the student fails to complete the assignment or examination.

Incomplete Grades

The university permits students to receive a grade of incomplete in emergency situations. These designations must be approved by an instructor.

Students have one year from the time an “I” grade is granted to complete the specified requirements. An Incomplete Grade is a non punitive grade and can only be assigned during the last one-fourth of a term. In order to receive an I grade students must:

- Be passing the course in which the “I” is to be granted
- Have a justifiable and documented reason for not being able to complete the course on schedule (such as serious illness or military service)

The student must arrange with the instructor to finish the course requirements at a later date. These requirements must be listed on a Request for Grade of Incomplete form signed by the instructor, student, and department chair; and also entered on the grade roster by the instructor. Course receiving a grade of “I” will default to an F if the coursework is not completed within the time given unless the instructor has designated a different automatic grade.

Removal of an Incomplete

A student may remove a grade of “I” within one year by completing the stipulated work. After the student completes the stipulated work, the instructor records the final grade on a UNT Grade Change Form and obtains the department chair’s signature. The instructor’s academic dean completes processing the form with the Registrar’s Office, where the grade point average is adjusted accordingly. If a student does not complete the stipulated work within the time specified, the grade of “I” will default to “F”, unless the instructor has designated a different automatic grade. The GPA is adjusted accordingly and the student will be subject to academic penalty should any exist.

Office of Disability Access
Location: Sage Hall, Suite 167
Phone: 940.565.4323
Fax: 940.369.7969
TTY callers: 940.369.8652
Website: www.unt.edu/oda

The Office of Disability Access (ODA) exists to prevent discrimination on the basis of disability as mandated by the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 as amended. This is accomplished by determining eligibility for qualified students by reviewing disability-related medical and psychological documentation along with the student's individual experiences, to determine appropriate, reasonable accommodations which are recommended to the campus. As part of this process, our office strives to facilitate the development of students through independence and autonomy. UNT is a student centered research institution; our office compliments this mission by providing leadership in the areas of equal access and advocacy for students with disabilities. In turn, our campus diversity will be richer and UNT will be more accessible to everyone. ODA provides a wide variety of services and resources spanning the full range of disabilities, dyslexia, including but not limited to, hearing loss, visual impairment, mobility impairment, brain injury/organic brain impairment, learning disabilities, ADHD/ADD, mood disorders, chronic diseases and injuries, and other conditions that meet ADA definitional criteria. In addition, the ODA provides testing facilities for administration of classroom exams when faculty are not able to provide this accommodation.
How to Register with the Office of Disability Access (ODA) for Accommodations

In order to request classroom accommodations through the ODA, students must adhere to the following guidelines:

1. Attain full acceptance to enroll in classes at the University.
2. Visit https://disability.unt.edu and login to the AIM Student Portal and complete the registration form.
3. Submit disability documentation. ODA staff will review the student’s registration form and documentation and reach out to the student to schedule a registration meeting.
4. Schedule and attend a registration meeting with an ODA Coordinator.

The website will inform students of the registration process, including guidelines for documentation of disability or medical condition that supports the accommodation request.

Students may register with the ODA once admitted into UNT; however, it is strongly recommended that new students attend New Student Orientation, receive academic advising, and register for classes prior to requesting classroom accommodations.

Dean of Students Office

Location: Union 409
Phone: 940.565.2648
Website: deanofstudents.unt.edu
Email: deanofstudents@unt.edu

Mission of Dean of Students

The Dean of Students Office (DOS) Office fosters the development of leadership, civility, accountability, and responsibility in the University of North Texas student; builds community through service and involvement; and serves as an advocate for all students. This office is dedicated to supporting the UNT student who may need assistance in resolving complex, social, personal, financial and academic matters. We strive to help all students achieve their academic and personal goals and enhance the UNT student experience.

Absence Verification

Students are expected to attend classes regularly and to abide by the attendance policy established by their instructor. However, the University is aware that there will be times when a student is unable to attend class due to emergency situations, health issues or the death of a loved one. The Dean of Students Office is available to assist a student with documenting their absence. Students must provide the DOS with official and verifiable documentation related to the reason for absence. Once the absences are verified, the decision to allow a student to make up course work is left to the discretion of the instructor and/or the department.

Authorized Class Absence/ Field Trips

All travel by students off the campus for the purpose of participation in athletics, music groups, AFROTC and Army activity, dramatics, exhibitions, debate, student government, conventions and field trips must be authorized by the dean of the school or college of the sponsoring department. Absence lists must be approved by the department chair and sent to the office of the dean in advance of the travel date. Sponsors must report to the DOS all students listed who did not make the trip.

Within three days after the absence, students must obtain an authorized absence form from the Dean of Students Office to provide to their instructors. Students with an authorized absence form may make up the work missed when practicable or be given special allowance so that they are not penalized for the absence. Additional information regarding Authorized Class Absences may be found in the Faculty Handbook.

Conduct

Phone: 940.565.2648
Website: deanofstudents.unt.edu/conduct
Email: conduct.dos@unt.edu

The Dean of Students Office is responsible for addressing concerns about student behavior. The Code of Student Conduct outlines prohibited conduct and the process the DOS uses to address alleged misconduct. DOS also assists departments in enforcing specific policies (e.g., parking regulations, residence hall community living standards, study abroad program expectations). Students are expected to know and abide by the university’s expectations.

Anyone can report alleged student misconduct to the DOS by calling 940.565.2648, visiting the DOS Office in the University Union (Suite 409) or emailing conduct.dos@unt.edu. There is no requirement that a report be made within a certain period of time, but a delay in reporting may hinder the university’s ability to hold students accountable for their conduct. DOS can also answer questions about university policies that relate to expectations for students, and can make referrals to other agencies to assist someone having a conflict with a student when the conduct process may not be appropriate.

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a federal law that protects the privacy of students’ educational records. Under FERPA, the university is typically not permitted to share information about disciplinary action it takes towards its students, except under certain, limited exceptions. This means while the DOS receives and reviews all reports, it generally cannot share how a report was addressed.

Students accused of misconduct meet with a university official to discuss the report and have the opportunity to provide their perspective and any relevant information to inform the university’s decision. The goal is to hold students accountable in a way that facilitates learning and ensues UNT is a place where all community members can succeed.

Anyone can report misconduct at report.unt.edu and “Report Student Misconduct”.
Pregnant & Parenting Students

The US Department of Education Office for Civil Rights released new Title IX requirements regarding pregnant and parenting students in June 2013.

The requirements and suggestions include:

- Schools must excuse a student’s absences because of pregnancy or childbirth for as long as the student’s physician deems the absences medically necessary.

- Absence policies in classes must accommodate pregnancy or childbirth related absences and allow for make-up work. “A teacher may not refuse to allow a student to submit work after a deadline that she missed because of absences due to pregnancy or childbirth. Additionally, if a teacher’s grading is based in part on class attendance or participation, the student should be allowed to earn the credits she missed so that she can be reinstated to the status she had before the leave.

- A school may offer the student alternatives to making up missed work, such as retaking a semester, taking part in an online course credit recovery program, or allowing the student additional time in a program to continue at the same pace and finish at a later date, especially after longer periods of leave. The student should be allowed to choose how to make up the work.

Pregnant students may contact the Dean of Students Office and a staff member will assist the student by discussing their options regarding their coursework and/or advocate to instructors regarding their situation.

The DOS will provide a Verified Absence form for pregnant students whose absences are deemed medically necessary by the student’s physician as well as parenting students (both male and female) who need to take their children to doctors’ appointments or to take care of their sick children as long as they provide proper documentation.

Additionally, the DOS will provide a Verified Absence form for parenting students (both male and female) who need to take their children to doctors’ appointments or to take care of their sick children as long as they provide proper documentation. Students needing a Verified Absence form should contact the DOS.

Students needing a Verified Absence form should contact the DOS. To apply for accommodations and submit documentation, visit report.unt.edu and complete a Pregnancy or Parenting report. If you would like to read more about these requirements and guidelines please visit: https://deanofstudents.unt.edu/resources#Pregnant

Seeking Options and Solutions (SOS Program)

Student-Initiated/Withdrawals

Students needing to drop all of their courses for the semester may contact the Dean of Students Office for assistance. Students will meet with a staff member to complete their withdrawal. During the meeting, students will be advised of withdrawal implications and be informed of any obligations they may have or need to fulfill prior to withdrawing. For information on the withdrawal process and deadlines, please visit: Sage 110, deanofstudents.unt.edu/withdrawals or call 940.565.3633.

If by chance a student is incapacitated and the student cannot make the request on their own, the DOS will assist. Verifiable documentation related to their condition will be required. For more information or assistance please contact the DOS at 940.565.3633.

Temporary Disability and Temporary Illness

It’s not unusual for students to encounter temporary illnesses or injuries during their time at UNT. The flu, broken bones, extended hospitalizations, surgeries etc. all represent temporary conditions which may result in missed classes and other academic difficulties. Such temporary conditions do not qualify for protection under the Americans with Disabilities (ADA) Act so long as they do not last more than 6 months.

Since there is no legal requirement for UNT to accommodate temporary illnesses, a student’s instructor may or may not allow them to make up missed work due to a temporary illness, or provide other accommodations.

Faculty members are encouraged to make adjustments for temporary illnesses when contacted by the DOS via email or when a student provides an Absence Verification form from the DOS.

Students may request temporary illness/disability assistance by completing the following steps:

1. Provide the Dean of Students Office with a letter from a physician, or other qualified professional, which must contain the following:
   a. A diagnosis and how the diagnosis impacts your academic pursuits
   b. Duration of illness, from the time it began to impact you academically and until the expected recovery
   c. Recommendations for academic adjustments (excuse absences, tardiness leniency, time for tests)

2. After receiving the medical documentation, the DOS will send an email to your professors or provide you with an Absence Verification form to take to your instructors.

3. It is your responsibility to discuss the letter with your instructors and work out the details of the adjustments.

4. Remember, your instructors have no obligation to make temporary adjustments. If they decline to allow adjustments you may need to drop the course, ask for an incomplete (I) (if allowed), or repeat the class in the future.

If your illness does not improve after 6 months, you should contact the UNT Office of Disability Accommodation at 940.565.4323 or www.unt.edu/oda to inquire about permanent accommodations.

Housing and Residence Life

Location: Crumley Hall 128
Phone: 940.565.2610
Website: housing.unt.edu

Housing and Residence Life strives to provide fully functioning, safe, and welcoming accommodations for our residents while also assisting in their academic success through various initiatives such as living-learning communities and faculty-in-residence programs. Housing actively seeks out opportunities to provide these services while establishing caring relationships with our residents. Through the Residence Hall Association, residents also have the opportunity to participate in hall government and contribute to their halls’ thriving communities.

Approximately 6300 students live on campus in fifteen residence halls. All unmarried undergraduate students who have graduated from high school the semester prior to enrolling at UNT, who have completed fewer than thirty (30) semester hours of university work (any hours completed while in high school may not be included in the thirty hours) and who enroll for nine or more semester hours are required to reside in university operated residence halls during their first year at UNT under a contractual room and board plan as long as space is available.

Exemptions from living in on-campus housing may be obtained if the student is either commuting from their parents’ home or meets one of the exceptions stated in the Housing Policy, available at http://policy.unt.edu/policy/18-5-1..
Housing Application and Payment Information

To complete a Housing application, students need to log in to the eHousing system through the Housing website using their EUID and password. The Housing application will allow students to select their preferred hall and room type from the spaces that are still available. If all spaces are full, students are directed to sign up for the Assignment Queue via the online application. Historically, freshman students on the Assignment Queue are able to be assigned a space in Housing. Space to assign upperclassmen or transfer students from the Assignment Queue can be limited. Housing contracts are signed for the full academic year. To complete the Housing application and hold a room preference selected by the student, students must make payment to Housing for a $50.00 non-refundable application fee and a $350.00 prepayment (applied to the balance for Housing during the first term living on campus) within 10 days of starting the application. Once billing for the semester has been applied, Housing will transfer the account balance for Housing and Dining to the student’s myUNT account for payment through Student Financial Services. Students are able to review the details of their charges through their eHousing account, including any changes that occur due to change in meal plans, room assignments or additional charges incurred. All billing and payments will be summarized by semester on the myUNT account and payments for Housing will have to be directed through Student Financial Services and the myUNT account. Payment plans for Housing and Dining, payment reminders and past due notices will be managed through the Student Financial Services.

What to Bring and What Not to Bring

Resident rooms are furnished with a bed, desk, chair, closet, and drawer storage for each occupant. All rooms have cable TV connections and both wired and wireless high-speed internet access. Residents should bring towels, pillows, and extra-long twin size linens, in addition to personal items such as toiletries and clothes. Housing recommends roommates communicate about what they are bringing to avoid doubling up on items. No additional storage is available and all university-provided furniture must remain in the room. Bicycles may be brought to campus but should be registered with the Parking and Transportation Office in case of theft. Bicycle racks are available at the residence halls and around campus; residents are responsible for securely locking their bicycles when not in use. Prohibited items include weapons of any kind, candles, incense or other heated scent producers, string lights or other flammable materials, pets (except fish), open coil appliances (such as toasters/toaster ovens, hot plates), alcohol (for underage residents), and illegal drugs or paraphernalia. For more information about what is and is not permitted in the residence halls, please see the Housing Handbook, which is available in the Housing Policies section of the Housing website.

Resident Safety

Exterior doors other than main building entrances to public space are always locked. Most halls require entrance and exit past the reception desk, which is staffed 24/7 in all halls except College Inn, Honors Hall, Legends Hall, Mozart Square and Santa Fe Square. Interior doors to residential space are always locked and require a student ID card for access.
Mail Service

Students living in the residence halls have the opportunity to be provided a UNT Mail Box from Eagle Express in the University Union as part of their Housing contract. Boxes are assigned by Eagle Express and can be secured during First Flight Week. Students living off campus may use their home addresses and/or rent a postal box. The box rental fee is payable with cash, by check, money order, or credit or debit card. You can pay in advance for 6 months or 1 year. With the completed Application Card, two types of identification are required. One ID must contain a photo.

*Please note that students are not allowed to share a P. O. Box.

General Questions

1. Should my son/daughter have a checking account in Denton? It may be easier for a student to conduct financial business in a timely manner with a local account. Out-of-town checks will be accepted at all campus locations with proper identification, and most Denton vendors also readily accept out-of-town checks as payment for purchases.

2. Is it necessary for my son/daughter to have a car in Denton? If your son or daughter will be working away from the campus or frequently leaving town, a car might be necessary. UNT has an excellent shuttle system that transports students around campus, as well as to several local apartment complexes. There are also several private shuttle services that provide transportation to the airport. The Denton County Transportation Authority offers a full service A Train between Denton and Carrollton.

3. How much extra money will my son/daughter need each week/month? For on-campus students, a “Fullweek” or “Eagle” meal plan provides all meals Sunday-Friday and the “Weekday” or “Scrappy” meal plans provide meals Monday-Friday. Most on-campus activities and programs are cost-free or very inexpensive. Other expenses include personal items and laundry. You and your student may want to spend some time establishing a weekly or monthly budget to help him/her with money management.

4. Should my son or daughter buy books during Freshman Orientation? If so, how much will we need for books? The UNT Bookstore allows students to reserve books during Orientation and pay for them when they return in the fall, so that students need not necessarily expect a cash outlay during orientation for books. The cost of books varies depending on the number of hours, the major and whether or not used books are available. Student Financial Aid and Scholarships uses an average figure of $500 per semester for books and supplies, based on a 15-hour schedule.

5. Where is the closest bank? Wells-Fargo has a branch inside the University Union, second floor. Other banks are located near the Courthouse Square, approximately four blocks from campus, along University Drive and along I-35 South. See the Yellow Pages for a list of banks.

6. Does my son/daughter need a mailbox? In order to receive mail, students living in the residence halls are provided a postal box in the University Union. Students that are commuting may use their home address and/or rent a P.O. Box from Postal Services in the University Union. Postal Services is located on the 1st level of the University Union. Students must maintain an accurate address with the Registrar during all periods of enrollment.

Housing Questions

1. My son/daughter has financial aid. Does that apply toward their Housing? Because your students Housing and Dining bill will be consolidated with their balance for tuition and fees through Student Financial Service, financial aid and scholarships are applied to the Housing balance owed, after being applied to the full payment of tuition and fees for the semester.

2. How can my son/daughter request a specific roommate? Students should utilize the Roommate Request functionality in the housing application to send/accept an invitation to form a roommate group. Roommate groups should be completed prior to being assigned in order to be accounted for in the room assignment process. Students can make use of the eHousing Roommate Matching system to locate potential roommate matches.

3. Can I see my son/daughter’s room? Housing staff provides a guided tour of the residence hall facilities during each orientation session. You may visit any hall that is open for tours but you will not be able to see exact room due to ongoing maintenance of occupancy by a student or summer conference guest. The tour rooms available in the residence halls will be a good representation of the room that your student will be living in so that you can plan accordingly.

4. When can my son/daughter move into the residence hall? Mean Green Move-In Weekend for Fall 2020 is scheduled for Saturday, August 15th and Sunday, August 16th. Students will receive email correspondence from Housing with a suggested move in date and time that is intended to help facilitate a smooth check in process and reduce traffic congestion. In the spring semester, the residence halls will open at 2 PM on the Wednesday before classes start.

5. Can my son/daughter switch to another hall if he/she doesn’t like the one assigned? Yes, Housing allows residents to request room changes and accommodate requests to move as space is available. Residents desiring a room change should talk to the staff at the front desk of their residence hall to submit a room change request. Residents wishing to move due to a roommate conflict may be provided with conflict mediation assistance in an effort to resolve the issue without requiring a move. In accordance with the university’s policy on nondiscrimination, moves will not be made based on race, color, national origin, etc.

6. Can we paint the room? Only the maintenance staff can paint residents’ rooms. If there is a problem with the condition of a room, please notify the front desk.

7. Is there a curfew in the residence halls? UNT Housing does not impose a curfew. There is, however, a restriction on visitation hours for guests. Details are available in the Housing policy guide, The Housing Handbook, which is available on the Housing website.

2. How does my student register for classes? Once a student has been advised, he/she is eligible to register using a computer in a designated laboratory during orientation. All registration is completed via my.unt.edu. Details and instructions are on line at essc.unt.edu/registrar in the Schedule of Classes.

3. Who will help my student construct a schedule? The students advisor will work with your student to develop a full-time schedule with alternative recommendations. Following the advising session, Orientation Leaders will help students construct their schedules and advise them of the average course load (15-16 hours); the hours required to be considered a “full-time” student (12 hours); the advantages and pitfalls of early classes; the importance of a mid-day break/lunch period; required core courses and electives.

Student Health & Wellness Center Questions

1. What does it cost to see a medical provider or nurse? Payment of the Medical Services Fee allows students to access the Student Health and Wellness Center (SHWC) and covers the cost of health education services. Office visit fees in the clinic are determined by the type of appointment, insurance plan benefits and other factors. Typically, students with insurance accepted at the SHWC can expect to pay their usual copay for primary care or specialty visits as determined by their policy. Students without insurance or those with insurance not accepted at the SHWC can talk to the SHWC Insurance Department for pricing on specific appointment reasons and services at SHWCInsurance@unt.edu or at 940).369.5446.

2. What must my student present in order for you to file on my insurance? Students can upload their insurance information to the Insurance tab of the SHWC patient portal at myosh.unt.edu prior to their first appointment. Students on the UNT student insurance plan need to activate their insurance at unt.myahpcare.com to access their virtual insurance card to be used at the SHWC and all other in-network providers. For prescription insurance policies, students should present their prescription insurance cards at the time of service in the Pharmacy to determine if we can file on their insurance or not.
3. Can my student get an excuse from class from the Student Health and Wellness Center? We typically do not provide excuses from class unless for special circumstances, such as contagious conditions or the student needs hospitalization. Students can request a statement at the time of checkout from the SHWC to show professors that they were seen at the clinic. Statements handed out for this purpose do not contain any protected health information.

4. Where does my student park when being seen at the Student Health and Wellness Center? The Student Health and Wellness Center has reserved patient parking spaces in the parking lot adjacent to Chestnut Hall. A parking validation can be requested at the time of checkout for students using clinical or pharmacy services.

5. How and where does my student pay? Payment in full is expected at the time of service in the form of cash, check, or credit card. We can accept flexible spending account cards as well, as long as they are tied to an accepted credit card company. Payments can be made at the payment window on the second floor of Chestnut Hall or in the pharmacy on the first floor of Chestnut Hall.

6. What immunizations are required to attend the University of North Texas? For the most current information, please refer to the Immunizations Requirements page on the Student Health and Wellness Center website at healthcenter.unt.edu/immunization-requirements.

If the pharmacy does not carry the type of medication needed, arrangements may be made to special order the medication. Students with a prescription from an outside doctor should talk to a pharmacist about their medication needs before they run out of a medication.

9. Can a prescription at another pharmacy be transferred to the SHWC pharmacy? Yes, prescriptions may be transferred from any pharmacy to the SHWC pharmacy by calling the pharmacy at (940) 565-2790 and requesting a prescription transfer. 10. What should my student bring to an appointment? Your student will need to bring their student ID card and a form of payment.

11. What if my student cannot make it to their appointment? We ask that students please call (940) 565-2793 at least 1 hour before their appointment time to cancel and avoid being charged a no-show fee. Students can also go online to myOSH.unt.edu to cancel their appointment as well. We are very busy and another student can use the appointment time.
12. Does the Student Health and Wellness Center offer laboratory services and x-rays?
Yes, both services are available on site. The patient will incur charges for any tests or x-rays that are performed.

Student Financial Aid & Scholarships (SFAS) Questions

1. What types of financial aid are available? UNT offers a variety of assistance to students and their parents. Scholarships, grants, work-study programs and loans are available to assist in financing a student’s education.

2. How do students apply for financial aid? All students must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) annually to apply for all federal, state and institutional aid available at UNT. UNT’s Priority Date to complete the FAFSA is January 15. Complete descriptions of all programs, requirements and qualifications are available at financialaid.unt.edu. To access the FAFSA, visit www.fafsa.gov. Students who have questions about requirements should contact SFAS. *Non-documented students may qualify for state assistance under Senate Bill 1528. Students should visit financialaid.unt.edu for more information.

3. What about applying for scholarships? Applying for scholarships requires a different application than applying for financial aid. SFAS oversees a range of scholarships that are funded by the University and donors who support UNT. In order to compete for these scholarships, students must complete the General Scholarship Application annually. When completing this application, students are encouraged to review the available scholarship opportunities listed on the General Scholarship Application site. Criteria and application deadlines vary for each scholarship opportunity. We encourage all new and continuing students to complete this application annually to ensure they are in competition for available scholarship funding. However, completing the annual application does not guarantee a scholarship award as awards are competitive and based on available funding. Access the General Scholarship Application as well as other scholarship information at scholarships.unt.edu. A number of scholarships are also available to incoming and continuing students through awards made by academic departments. Students should check with the department of their major for more details.

4. Can my student access their information online? Students will be guided through the financial aid process through a series of TO DO LIST items. Students can access their TO DO LIST online through the myUNT Student Portal by logging in with their assigned EUID and password. The myUNT portal is located at my.unt.edu.

5. May I talk to a Financial Aid Advisor? No appointment is needed to speak with a Financial Aid Advisor. Advisors are available from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday on both the first and second levels of the Eagle Student Services Center (ESSC). To ensure that everyone is assisted in a fair and organized manner, visitors are asked to sign in on a computer and will be seen on a first-come, first-served basis. To reach a Customer Service Representative by telephone, call (940) 565-2302 or (877) 881-1014 Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

6. What other services does SFAS provide? Computers are located in ESSC, room 228 to assist students through the financial aid and scholarship processes at UNT. 7. How and when are fall and spring financial aid funds disbursed? Financial aid, with the exception of work-study, is credited to the student’s tuition and fees account prior to the beginning of each fall and spring semester/term. If provided all TO DO LIST items have been completed; enrollment requirements have been met; and academic progress has been made. Payment for work-study occurs twice a month and is based on the number of hours worked. The Parent PLUS Loan will disburse if the PLUS borrower does not have adverse credit history and SFAS has received a credit approval through the Federal Direct Loan Program.

8. How and when are fall and spring scholarships disbursed? Scholarship funds will disburse once a student establishes attendance in the credit hours required to receive the award.

9. How should the tuition and fee bill be handled during Orientation if financial aid and/or scholarships have been awarded? Students are encouraged to make payment arrangements during Orientation through the use or combination of Anticipated Aid, the Installment Plan, a Short Term Loan or personal payment (cash, check or credit card). Students who have been awarded external scholarships should submit award letters and/or checks to SFAS. If SFAS is notified of a scholarship after financial aid has been awarded, a student’s eligibility for those awards may change and adjustments could be made.

10. What happens if my child withdraws from classes at UNT? If a student withdraws from all classes before completing 60% of the semester/term, the U.S. Department of Education mandates that SFAS apply a formula to return Title IV (federal) financial aid funds to the programs from which the money was paid. This will create a balance owed by the student to UNT. Students are required to notify BOTH the Office of the Registrar and SFAS prior to withdrawing if classes have not begun. Once classes begin, students must notify the Dean of Students office to begin the withdrawal process.

Student Money Management Questions

1. As a parent, how can I help my student to be more prepared for the financial realities of college? First, share your values about money and expectations with your student in a non-judgmental manner. The center’s services should be seen as a resource to strengthen the values students already share with their families. Second, be honest and specific. Define the funding you will be providing every semester and what costs your student will be responsible to cover.

2. What does it cost students to take advantage of the center’s programs and services? The center is funded through a portion of the student services fee students pay every semester. The center provides its educational programs and coaching services at no additional cost. There are nominal origination fees associated with its emergency assistance program.

3. How much pocket change should my student expect to need? The amount of money you decide to provide to your student for out-of-pocket spending is set at your discretion. We surveyed our student workers and the amount of money their families provided every month ranged from $0-$200.

4. Does my student need a credit card? The choice to provide your student with a credit card is at your discretion. The center encourages parents to talk to their students about the benefits and risks associated with credit cards. For most college students a credit line of $300 - $500 should be adequate—enough financial support to address most emergency situations. Yet not enough to bury a student under unmanageable debt.

5. What is the center’s policy on confidentiality? The center upholds students’ right to confidentiality. At no time will any of the information shared by students be provided to any other party, including parents, unless express permission is granted by the student.

6. Are there any easy money management tips you can recommend to new freshmen to save money? Yes. A few suggestions that come readily to mind:
   » Take advantage of the university’s textbook rental program
   » Use your meal plan and don’t forget FLEX dollars are semester-specific. Use them or lose them!
   » Take advantage of free events on campus and student discounts around town
   » Regularly check their myUNT accounts to ensure no financial obligations are on their accounts
   » Buy a parking permit if they are bringing a vehicle to campus
   » Ensure their student account balance is $0 at the end of every semester in their student account
   » Use the SMMC!
Student Veteran Services Questions

1. As a veteran, am I eligible for federal financial aid? Please visit the FAFSA website to find out more information.  [studentaid.ed.gov/fafsa/filling-out/dependency]

2. Upon enrollment into classes, when will benefits be received from the VA? Students are generally paid on or about the 1st of each month for the dates of attendance in the previous month. (Example: October 1st payday covers September 1-September 30). If payment is not received in this time frame, please contact VA by calling 1-888-GIBILL-1 (1-888-442-4551). UNT processes all the enrollment certifications in order by the date received. The enrollment certification forms must be submitted each semester the student intends to use federal educational benefits.

3. What if my student is receiving Education benefits, is called to Active Duty, and needs to withdraw from classes? Texas Education Code 54.006 (f) indicates, “Beginning with the summer semester of 1990, if a student withdraws from an institution of higher education because the student is called to active military service, the institution, at the student’s option, shall: (1) refund the tuition and fees paid by the student for the semester in which the student withdraws; (2) grant a student, who is eligible under the institution’s guidelines, an incomplete grade in all courses by designating ‘withdrawn-military’ on the student’s transcript; or (3) as determined by the instructor, assign an appropriate final grade or credit to a student who has satisfactorily completed a substantial amount of course work and who has demonstrated sufficient mastery of the course material.” Students should contact the Dean of Students to determine their options.

In order to be eligible for options under this law a UNT student must produce a copy of his or her orders. Withdrawal may or may not require that the student talk with each instructor depending on timing in the semester; however, the latter two options do require that the student talk with his or her instructors and come to a decision as to which solution is best for each class given timing and circumstances. A student called to active duty may consider the following options:

1. Withdrawal with a full refund of appropriate tuition/fees;
2. Incomplete grades with the one-year I (Incomplete) removal time limit starting with the end of active duty; or
3. A final grade if the course is essentially over and the course material has been sufficiently mastered (determined by the instructor).

4. Are education benefits taxable? You should consult your tax preparer/accountant for additional information and advice regarding the use of veteran educational benefits.

5. Can credit be received for military training? As a veteran, active-duty, or reserve status member of the US Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, depending on basic active-duty service date/basic pay entry dates (BASD/BPED), students may be eligible to receive credit through the Joint Services Transcript (JST), available at no charge. JST transcripts are fully automated documents, endorsed by the American Council on Education (ACE) and generated by the services, that provide an official list of military courses, occupations, and college-level exam scores completed during active duty that have been evaluated by ACE for college credit.

It is important for students to take advantage of these valuable tools that may add college credit to your program of study, at no cost to you! For more information see the following:

6. What does the Student Veteran Services Office do? The purpose of the SVS to build and maintain a community at the University of North Texas with individuals who have served the US military in hopes of supporting a seamless transition from military life to civilian college life. Our goal is to remove barriers that student veterans face with the transition support. We hope to provide student veterans and dependents connections to resources both on and off campus, and to give recognition to the service members in our UNT community through programs and scholarships.

The Student Veteran Services Office includes representatives from the UNT Registrar's Office, Student Financial Services, and Student Affairs. The SVS Office is equipped with a computer lab, study lab, and other services. Our goals are to recruit, retain, and graduate veterans to the job market while also providing services that help veteran students and dependents understand their federal and state educational benefits during their academic career here at UNT.

7. Dependent students using federal educational benefits (Chapters 33 & 35): If a student is the dependent or spouse of a veteran and has been using educational benefits at another institution, transferring those benefits to UNT is easy. When the student registers for classes and comes in to the SVS to see a VA Certifying Official, the student will complete a VA Form 22-5495 (Dependents' Request for Change of Program or Place of Training). The Certifying Officials will notify the VA of the change during the enrollment certification and will keep the form on file to provide to the VA.

8. Will the VA pay for tutorial assistance? Yes, tutorial assistance is available if the student is receiving VA educational assistance at the half-time or higher rate and have a deficiency in a subject that makes tutoring necessary. Students can be reimbursed up to $100 per month up to a maximum of $1200.

To apply for tutorial assistance complete VA Form 22-1990t. The UNT certifying official and tutor must sign the form. When the form is complete, the student will mail it to the VA Regional Processing Office that serves the state in which your school is located.

For additional help, please call 1-888-GIBILL-1 (1-888-442-4551).

9. My student went to UNT a few years ago and then withdrew, what is the process to return to UNT? Go to www.ApplyTexas.org, choose returning student, and complete the “Readmit Application for Former Students”. Using this application, the application fee is waived.
